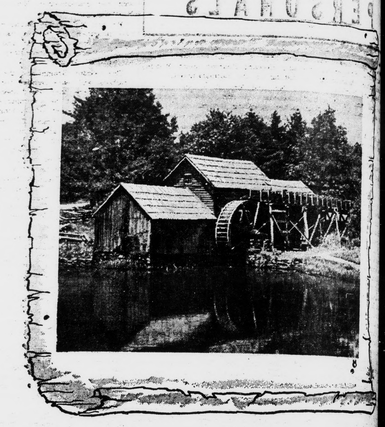
Down by the old mill stream ... AMERICA BEGAN!



You don't see very many of them in these modern days, but it is figuratively true that Down by the Peaceful Stream where from small beginnings such operations as the neighborhood mill began business, there was the Grassroots Industry and Free Enterprize which is now our vast complex and mighty society.

People came to the mill to do business and to linger for discussion of affairs and events. And there was a lot of solid character, sound thinking and honest principle in what went on at the grassroots level. The character of our nation was fostered and nurtured at the neighborhood and community level. And because that character was strong, our nation became strong.

A direct Heir to the old-fashioned neighborhood community gathering place, is the modern American county court house town. Appomattox is such a town. It is tremendously advanced over the depot station village of a century ago. It is abreast of all that is modern, and stands for progress. But . . . yet it has not lost, in all the hustle and bustle of the passing years, the essential Home-folk and Good-neighbor touch. We are still close to the Good Earth. We are proud to be Workers. Sure, we want the best of what the Big Town has, and we think we have it; but we also cling to something else, and that is the Magic of the Dynamic American TOWN.

We think that it is to your advantage to do business in Appomattox. In so doing, YOU are having a vital part in keeping Our Town Strong, and helping it to Grow. Just as a chain is no stronger than each separate link, so is our great Nation no stronger than each community over the land. And so, too, is Appomattox no stronger than it is made by each individual person who has the opportunity to do business here. We are confident that from the wide variety of business services available, such as those listed on this page, you can find your every need. We extend you a warm invitation to consider us as your Friends and Neighbors and join us in putting Home-earned Dollars to work in and for your Home Town.

QUESTIONS OF THE WEEK

(Editor's note: Here are the questions asked most frequently by Virginia farmers during the past week, as reported by county agricultural agents. Answers are supplied by staff members of the VPI Agricultural Extension Service and/or Experiment Station.)

Q. What variety of alfalfa should I seed?

A. Certified Williamsburg, Certified Atlantic, Certified Buffalo, Certified Narragansett, Kansas Common, and Oklahoma Approved are the varieties recommended for Virginia.

Q. Why do my tomato blooms turn black and fall off without setting fruit?

A. There are several possible reasons. Too much nitrogen will sometimes cause the trouble. Some tomatoes simply don't set very well.

Q. When is the hog market expected to break?

A. It looks as if the hog market will stay fairly strong until about this time next year.

Q. What will good and choice steer calves bring this fall?

A. An estimated 20 to 25% higher than they did last fall and in line with prices paid for feeders in the spring.

Q. How can I save my tomatoes from late blight?

A. Spray regularly with maneb or zineb, or (if late blight is present and severe in the neighborhood) copper.

Q. Is it too late to plant garden corn?

A. It is getting late in most parts of Virginia. You should allow at least 90 days before harvest. A very early variety might do all right in eastern Virginia, if planted immediately.

Q. What can I do to prevent damage from Japanese beetles next year on my shrubs and garden?

A. You can control the grub stage of the beetle this fall and early next spring by chemical insecticides applied as a soil poison, or by the use of milky spore disease, as suggested in USDA Farmers Bulletin 2004.

Q. How can I control horse flies on dairy cows and work stock?

A. Spray cows every 2 to 7 days as needed, with a spray solution containing pyrethrins plus a synergist—0.05% pyretrins plus 5% synergist of either piperonyl butoxide or MGK 265. Apply 1 to 2 quarts per animal. If you prefer a mist spray rather than a wet spray, use oil solutions or emulsion concentrates of pyrethrins plus synergist—1% pyrethrins plus 10% synergist. This will also control horn flies, stable flies, deer flies, and mosquitoes. On work stock use the same material, preferably applied with a sponge.
